Buncome Technology

When it comes to computer consulting, Roy Buncome leads the field. Providing complete computer systems management, he understands the computer challenges and security issues of small businesses.

Richard Skinner III, of Richard Skinner & Associates, recognized Roy's skill and encouraged him to go out on his own: "Roy is the perfect fit for small firms because he is able to respond quickly to emergencies...and can assist in avoiding major problems," Skinner says, noting Roy's extensive knowledge of networking and architectural software.

"Roy has the ability to manage and design your systems to improve reliability, security and make you more productive," says Lewis E. Everline, AIA, praising Roy's ability to see the big picture.

Buncome Technology provides data restoration, password recovery and IT cost justification among its myriad services.
